

Published based on Going with the wind

Going with the wind

The wind blowing across the prairie is a familiar part of living in this area, a force of nature. a perfect storm seems to be brewing to make it something more, to make wind energy important as an economic development force. The American Wind Energy Association released fourth quarter 2011 results recently that showed Illinois moving from fifth to fourth in the nation in wind power generation ...

Going with the wind

You can also find this article published on Going with the wind, and on the tag pages american wind energy association, economic development force, fourth quarter, perfect storm, wind energy association.