

Published based on 'Major leap forward' for wind energy

'Major leap forward' for wind energy

Two small wind turbines tested by engineers at West Texas A&M University's Alternative Energy Institute and the U.S. Department of Agriculture facility in Bushland are the first in the nation to win approval from the Small Wind Certification Council.

'Major leap forward' for wind energy

You can also find this article published on 'Major leap forward' for wind energy, and on the tag pages agriculture, alternative energy institute, leap, m university, wind certification, wind energy.